

Dear Parents and Guardians,

As you homeschool your children and dependents have you ever considered enrolling them at the University for college credits while still in high school?

University of South Florida (USF) can offer that opportunity cost free. For example, the 11th grade English class is the same as English Composition I and while the course is more intense it satisfies the graduation requirement for high school and awards three (3) college credits at the same time saving time and money. The Dual Enrollment courses are free of charge and can be taken online with USF or at a University of South Florida Campus.
